BEXLEYHEATH: Irish dancers light up Mick Jagger Centre

A WEST End technical crew inspired dancers from a Bexley Irish dancing school as they performed their latest production.

Guest of honour at the Courtney McMahon School of Irish Dance event held at the Mick Jagger in Shepherds Lane, Dartford, was Dartford mayor Councillor Jennifer Rickwood.

After entertaining the audience in the main auditorium to a display of Irish dancing, the mayor presented the dancers with U.Dance certificates of achievement.

Cllr Rickwood said: "I was overwhelmed by the skill and confidence of the young performers.

"The evening was a thrilling spectacle of dance."

She was so impressed that she has asked the school, based at Townley Grammar School in Townley Road, Bexleyheath, to collaborate on a fundraising dinner dance, A Hint of Irish, in aid of her charity appeal, taking place next February.

Earlier this year the school won the top choreography award in the Dance for Life final, an annual dance showcase run by the British Red Cross and next year, its dancers will perform at London's South Bank.
